A Landmark Reborn

Designed by world renowned architect Eero Saarinen and opened in 1962, the TWA Flight Center was built for Trans World Airlines (TWA) by Howard Hughes to represent the era's excitement of travel. The TWA Flight Center was designated a New York City landmark in 1994 and, after its 2001 closure, was listed on the National and New York State Registers of Historic Places in 2005.

Saarinen's masterpiece has taken flight once again as the heart of the TWA Hotel. Two hotel wings, designed to reflect and defer to the landmark, sit behind the historic building.

Hotel Highlights

The TWA Hotel features 512 ultra-quiet guestrooms with exhilarating views of JFK's runways and the TWA Flight Center plus:

- 50,000 square feet of meeting and event space that can host up to 1,600 people
- Celebrated chef Jean-Georges Vongerichten's Paris Café and Lisbon Lounge, open for breakfast, lunch and dinner
- The Sunken Lounge, serving light bites as well as classic and signature cocktails
- A rooftop infinity pool and observation deck with views of runway 4L/22R and The Pool Bar, serving food and drinks
- A Lockheed Constellation "Connie" L-1649A transformed into a one-of-a-kind cocktail lounge
- The world's largest hotel gym: the 10,000-square-foot TWA Fitness
- Museum exhibits including authentic TWA flight attendant uniforms, a recreation of a 1962 living room and reproductions of the offices of Howard Hughes and Eero Saarinen
- A classic Solari split-flap message board with original mechanical operation – manufactured in Udine, Italy – that can be customized with special messages for events and meetings

At the Center of Everything

The TWA Hotel is the only on-airport hotel at JFK Airport, which hosts 70+ airlines and serves more than 455,500 flights and 62 million passengers per year.

“It seems to offer the visitor nothing but choices, to go up the wide central stairs ... to settle into the sun-drenched Sunken Lounge or wind your way up to the restaurants and bars above, to move or to sit, to explore or to dream.”

A view from the iconic bridge

The Historic TWA Flight Center

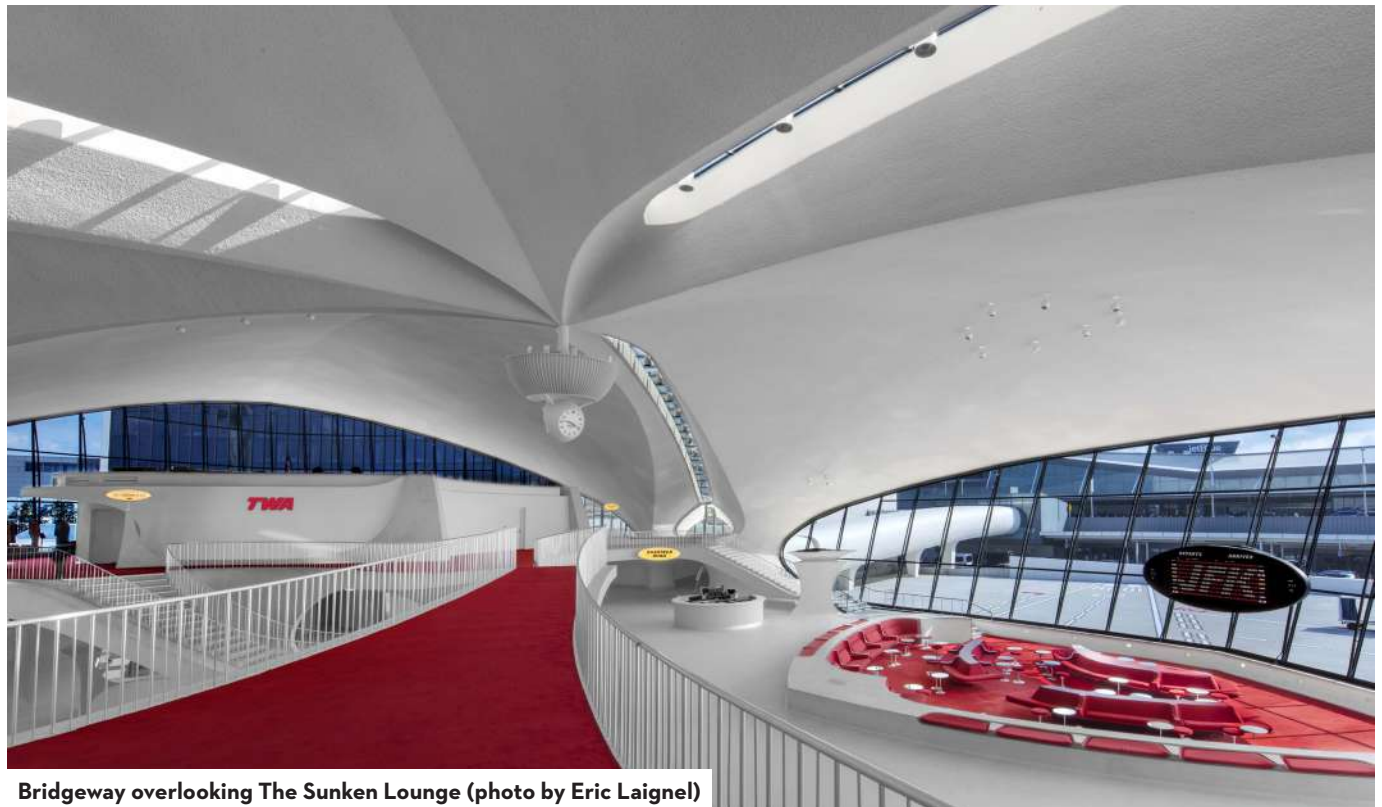

Fully restored to its original glory, the TWA Flight Center offers 200,000 square feet of flexible space including outdoor terraces. Original details – the Vulcain clock, sparkling white penny tile and plush Chili Pepper Red carpets – exude Jet Age glamour. Saarinen's iconic Flight Tubes (made famous by the 2002 film Catch Me If You Can) lead to guestrooms and museum exhibits, as well as provide a premium photo opp. The nostalgic clacking sound of two authentic Solari split-flap boards – and the view of the 1958 Lockheed Constellation on the tarmac just outside – fully transport visitors back to the golden age of travel.

Landmark Hall

Guests can enjoy a cocktail at Eero's Bar and mingle in the 5,200-square-foot Landmark Hall pre-function space just outside the Constellation Ballroom. Authentic Saarinen-designed Knoll furniture – including Pedestal tulip tables and comfy Womb chairs – provide stylish spaces for attendees to relax, while carefully curated vignettes of retro TWA artifacts serve as surefire conversation-starters.

Constellation Ballroom

The 6,000-square-foot Constellation Ballroom – ideal for galas, trade shows, conferences, cultural events and more – boasts soaring 21-foot ceilings. Divisible in half, the room connects with 5,200 square feet of pre-function space. Unique floor-to-ceiling hangar doors provide the opportunity for a dramatic “reveal” of the space to guests. Six Skyboxes overlooking the ballroom can be used for audio/visual needs, pre-event prep or balcony-like views of the room.

The Sunken Lounge

In 1965, crowds gathered on these penny-tiled banquettes to watch the Beatles arrive in the United States. These days, the TWA Hotel's signature bar operated by Gerber Group serves up the best martinis for miles, in addition to custom cocktails. Floor-to-ceiling windows provide guests breathtaking views of the 1958 Lockheed Constellation "Connie" airplane parked on the tarmac just outside. Meanwhile, an authentic split flap Solari board displays messages that can be customized for events.

Paris Café & Lisbon Lounge

Bon appétit! Celebrated chef Jean-Georges Vongerichten oversees the historic Paris Café and its sleek bar area, the Lisbon Lounge. Located in the heart of the TWA terminal, the spaces were originally outfitted by famed Parisian industrial designer Raymond Loewy – the mind behind the airline's twin globes logo. The café serves breakfast, lunch and dinner. Guests can indulge in Vongerichten's famed black truffle pizza while watching planes take off through the floor-to-ceiling windows.

- Reception: 150 guests

Semi-private dining for between 8-30 guests can be accommodated in certain sections.

Connie Cocktail Lounge

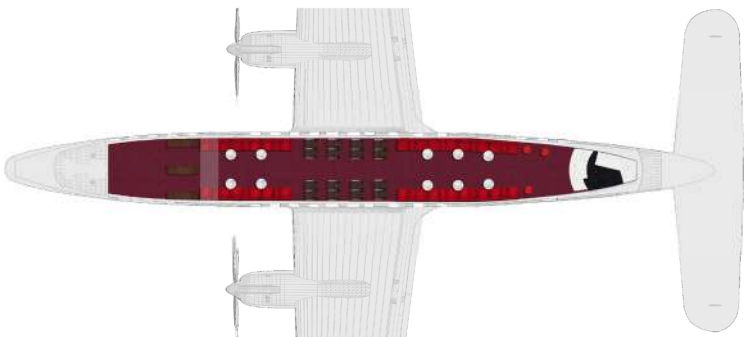

Connie, an original 1958 Lockheed Constellation airplane, offers a one-of-a-kind cocktail lounge experience. Her smartly renovated cabin – where vintage-inspired drinks and nibbles are served – accommodates 75 guests and provides a first-class setting for VIP gatherings. (The space, operated by Gerber Group, can also be included as part of a larger-scale event package.) Want to take it to the tarmac? Connie's runway can host upwards of 2,000 people.

The Ambassadors Club & Pope's Room

Once a stylish lounge for TWA's first-class passengers, the Ambassadors Club now serves as a flexible event space made for a unique dining experience or reception. Period-perfect details include Saarinen-designed furnishings and a marble fountain. The space houses several cozy nooks including the Pope's Room, a golden-domed hideaway where pontiffs – who famously flew TWA – discreetly relaxed between flights. The hotel's exhibit of vintage TWA uniforms by designers such as Balmain, Valentino and Ralph Lauren adds to the charm.
